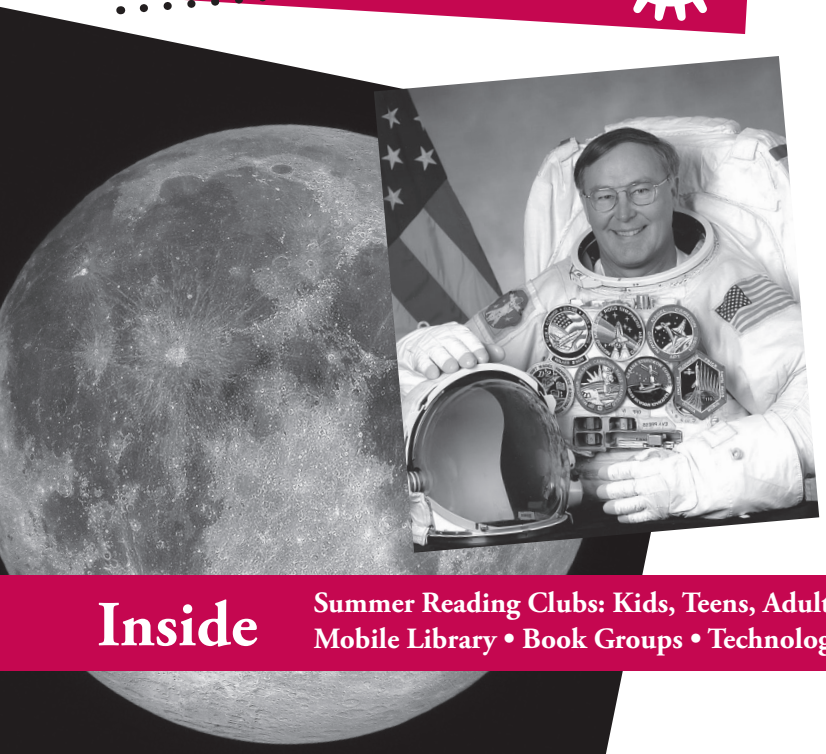
Try Our Triumvirate Of Summer Fun

Three Summer Reading Clubs
All Libraries. All Ages.
Sign Up: May 27 – July 1
Read: May 27 – July 31
Earn prizes or enter a drawing!

Science programs, experiments, and reading entertain TCPL Summer Reading Club members. Special demonstrations and fascinating science lessons welcome audience participation. 2014 Summer Reading Club handouts provide sign up details and more information. Questions? Stop by any TCPL library, check www.tcpl.lib.in.us, and join us on Facebook and Twitter.

Furry Tales With A Twist
Saturday, June 7
10:30 a.m. or 2:00 p.m., Downtown

Sam, Alex, and puppet friends join GoldiSOCKS, three wolves, three Billy TROLLS Gruff and three little BEARS. See them battle bad BILLY GOAT in a play by Jennifer Hickock DeFratis. Reserve tickets at any library starting Monday, June 2 or call 429-0119.



Astronaut & Author Jerry Ross
Saturday, July 19, 4:00 p.m., Downtown

When Jerry Ross was ten years old, he wanted to go into space. Since the space program relies on science and engineering, Ross studied hard and earned two degrees at Purdue. His flights include 1,393 hours in space, 58 hours and 18 minutes on nine space walks, and seven shuttle missions. Now retired from the U.S. Air Force, Ross tells us about the obstacles and opportunities he experienced. Audience questions welcomed. A book sale and signing follows the program.

Director's Notes & Mobile Library

Almost two years ago Dennis Carson, Executive Director of the Lafayette Economic Development Department, and I had a brief conversation. We explored a distinctive opportunity for the Tippecanoe County Public Library (TCPL). The exploration developed into a new partnership and something unimagined for TCPL – MatchBOX Coworking Studio, LLC – a new, membership-based co-working space.

MatchBOX is housed in the Don and Lois Stein Building on the corner of Alabama and Sixth Streets. TCPL owns the 16,000 square-foot building and is leasing them 10,000 square feet for $1 a year. Many of you may wonder why we embarked on this unique adventure and entered into a partnership that promises "ginormous" results.

The motivation is clear when you consider TCPL's vision statement, "to explore and enjoy excellent resources that enrich your life and our community's life today and tomorrow." TCPL accomplishes this vision by providing a balanced print and non-print collection of materials, a wealth of free programs, diverse services, accessible facilities, and a well-trained staff. All these elements are part of library operations and familiar throughout our community. Although MatchBOX is not a library operation, the collaborative energy and efforts of everyone involved, plus the already-visible results are absolutely compatible with the library's vision.

Obviously, the library is a proponent of the exchange of ideas. It is also a proponent of information access, life-long learning, and shared resources. These exact elements are reflected in the numerous community forums held at the library.

In small communities, libraries are the only true public "gathering place" and serve as community centers. At TCPL, organizations and groups of various sizes meet for information sharing and educational pursuits. With a co-working space next door, TCPL contributes to expanded opportunities and new exchanges of ideas.

Historically, the primary mission of libraries was to select, organize, preserve, and disseminate information. Within the past two decades, libraries played a pivotal role in the "information society" by providing customers with affordable, equal access to digital technologies.

At the end of the day, libraries have contributed to the knowledge economy. In today's information society, the knowledge economy drives innovation and production. Instead of muscle, brainpower moves ideas forward and at an unimaginable pace.

MatchBOX will be another place where intelligence and creativity ignite, achieving enough combustion to transform ideas into next-generation products, services, and businesses. This combustion also may generate new employment opportunities and a more diverse business community.

Remarkably all of this is occurring just down the block, right here in greater Lafayette. Remarkably the library is able to play a part in making this happen.

In an earlier paragraph, I said "ginormous." While in the 9th grade, when our daughter said "ginormous," I said, "You are making up words." She replied, "It is in the dictionary." It is in the dictionary, and MatchBOX is ginormous!

Like your library, MatchBOX encourages the exploration of resources. It offers local entrepreneurs a space designed to inspire creativity and achievement. Since this facility and its members will enrich the community's life today and tomorrow, MatchBOX absolutely exemplifies the library's vision.

In this shared landmark 1937 building, we look forward to 21st century exchanges of ideas. Congratulations to everyone involved in its initial success.
